From The City Plan Commission.

October 11, 1929.

To the Honorable, the Common Council:

Gentlemen — Numerous requests have been submitted to the City Plan Commission for the opening of a street in line with Orangelawn or Crocuslawn Avenue between Wisconsin Avenue and Oakman Boulevard. At the present time there is no east and west street between Wyoming Avenue and Oakman Boulevard lying in the district south of Plymouth Road and north of West Chicago Avenue, which streets are a half mile apart. There is no way by which property owners west of Ohio Avenue can reach the carline on Northlawn Avenue except in a round-about manner.

We have prepared a study for the opening of Orangelawn Avenue between Ohio Avenue and Oakman Boulevard, but find that it will meet Oakman Boulevard at the Pere Marquette Railroad, and that the street would become useless when the grades are separated at this point. We have therefore prepared a plan for the extension of Crocuslawn Avenue between Wisconsin Avenue and Oakman Boulevard. We communicated with the Robert Oakman Land Company, which is the owner of approximately 50 per cent of the property affected by this proposed opening, asking if they would deed the land which they own. We have been advised by that Company that they will deed to the City of Detroit the land which they own in line with this street opening, if it is opened between Wisconsin Avenue and Oakman Boulevard, and upon condition that they are not assessed for this improvement.

The City Plan Commission believes the opening of a street in this district to be a public necessity. We therefore recommend that the offer of the Robert Oakman Land Company be accepted.

All of the above is outlined on the attached blueprint. Plan No. 524-3.

Respectfully submitted,

WALTER H. BLUCHER,
Secretary.

By Councilman Bradley:

Resolved, That the recommendation of the City Plan Commission relative to the opening of Crocuslawn Avenue between Wisconsin Avenue and Oakman Boulevard be and the same is hereby concurred in, and the matter is referred to the Condemnation Commission to prepare tentative assessment district, estimated cost of the improvement, etc., and hold the necessary hearings with the interested property owners.
